

Amy Melissa Witt is an educator and horticulturist with over 25 years' experience developing, coordinating and providing horticulture and nature-based educational programs and events in southern Maine.

For the past 16 years, Amy was the Horticulturist with the University of Maine Cooperative Extension in Cumberland County. In her role with UMaine Extension, she established and managed the UMaine Gardens at Tidewater Farm; developed and delivered a wide variety of educational programs to homeowners, local businesses and organizations; coordinated the Master Gardener training program in Cumberland County; and managed the Maine Harvest for Hunger Program.

Amy has a degree in Horticulture, is a Master Gardener Volunteer and a Habitat Steward. She is a current trainer for Landscape for Life and was also an instructor for the National Wildlife Federation's Habitat Steward Program.